STARS OF YOUR STAR-SPANGLED SUMMER

reigning recording artist, with 23 albums and 35 singles under her 18-inch belt. Now, a generation later, she's in the music business again.

On the strength of a recent single, she's recorded and produced "The Annette Funicello Country Album" for Starview Records. "I want to remain in the music business," she said. And lending weight to the statement, she disclosed that she's producing two more albums, plus writing and promoting original music.

Steve Allen, among the most visible of entertainers, has a secret side. Every so often, obeying the impulse, he'll go into a jazz club unannounced, sit down at the piano, and play a set. "I love to be at a piano and create,"

he explains. He's shown up at such west coast spots as Dante's, Carmelo's and the Vine Street Bar and Grill. When he's in New York, as he will be this month taping the pilot for a CBS-TV show, "Comedy Zone," he sometimes drops in at places like Michael's Pub.

Allen's passion for jazz goes back to his boyhood. "I've indulged my interest as a jazz composer," he says, "and I'm pleased that many jazz greats have seen fit to record some of my numbers." They've also made guest appearances on Allen's "Music Room" for The Disney Channel. Among the headliners on his show this month is blues singer Joe Williams, long identified with Count Basie, Lionel Hampton and other jazz band leaders of the 1940s (see page 13).

When Steve Allen sits down to play, he's never at a loss for a number—he's written over 4,000 songs

Annette begins career in country music

Bob Crosby takes the spotlight at Disneyland

Celebrating his 50th year as a bandleader this month (see page 16) Bob Crosby harks back to the start of his career. Crosby says his original goal was to be recognized as himself, not as Bing Crosby's kid brother. "I could either be Bing's brother and not as good a singer, or I could become a band leader and have a better band than Bing because he never had one. So I topped him in that respect."

Crosby is identified with Dixieland jazz, and maintains that Dixieland music is a true American art form. Walt Disney shared his opinion. Since 1966 Crosby and his band have appeared in the Magic Kingdom every summer for the week known as Dixieland at Disneyland.

Schoolgirl Annette Funicello (see page 7) was Disney Studios'

Twenty years ago at the Olympic Games in Tokyo, Billy Mills became the first American to win the 10,000 meter run. It was a remarkable victory. Mills was an unknown, whose chances for winning against such world record holders as Ron Clarke of Australia were pegged at a thousand to one. He was also half-Indian, and as such had led an impoverished, embittered life.

Mills is back in the spotlight this month. Besides introducing "Here Comes Sam... The Making of an Olympic Symbol" (see page 11), he's among 15 former Olympic champions featured in "The American" on national TV. He's also host of the summer Olympics track and field events for Sports Illustrated magazine.

Lindsay Wagner's sitting pretty at Walt Disney World

Fess Parker's at home on the range

Fess Parker has made 11 outdoor movies for the Disney Studios. That's fine with Fess. He enjoys wide open spaces, to the point of running a 2,500-acre cattle ranch 70 miles north of his home in Santa Barbara. He rides herd on 300 head of specially-bred cows. "The terrain on my ranch is rugged, and purebred cattle won't take the trouble to go up and get grass," he says. "Our hybrids are very energetic, and I'm pleased with the way they stand up." (see page 19).

"I first met Walt Disney in the maternity unit of a hospital," Gary Owens recalls. "His daughter Diane was there with her new baby. My wife was in the bed beside her with our new son, Christopher. I was outside, making faces through the window at Christopher, when I glanced up and there was Walt, looking at his granddaughter. I said 'Mr. Disney, could you make a face for my young son?' Walt stuck his tongue out and made funny movements with his hands. That was a magic moment for Christopher and a treasured memory for me."

Owens' career at the Disney Studios began in 1968 and consists mostly of doing voice-overs for cartoons and preview trailers. He makes a rare on-camera appearance in "The Roots of Goofy" (see page 12).

Gary Owens gets his star on the Walk of Fame, next to Walt Disney's Long-distance runner Billy Mills, Olympic gold medalist.

(Animated Feature)

Mirth and melody share the spotlight and "Dumbo" takes the center ring in this cartoon classic about a baby circus elephant with oversized ears who soars to fame and fortune.

Among the most appealing of all Disney animated films, "Dumbo" premiered in 1941. It has gone on to win the hearts of audiences everywhere in the world.

"Dumbo" is remembered by veteran studio artists as the fastest and easiest feature-length cartoon

Walt Disney ever had them produce.

"Walt knew exactly how he wanted to go with the story," says Ward Kimball, an animation director on the film.

"The way he outlined it was the way it turned out. That in itself was unusual.

"The guys were all very excited, and we worked fast. I remember at one point I was animating 40 feet of film a week. The average rate was about a foot and a half a week.

"We finished 'Dumbo' in a little over a year, about a quarter of the time usually spent on a feature-length cartoon."

The result is a picture overflowing with delightful touches, captivating songs, and memorable sequences ranging from Dumbo's touching reunion with his mother to the bizarre pink elephants on parade.

Herbie RIDES AGAIN

Helen Hayes, Ken Berry, Stefanie Powers, John McIntire, Keenan Wynn

One smash hit deserves another, so join our intrepid Love Bug for new adventures in "Herbie Rides Again."

This time the driverless Volkswagen with superhuman powers belongs to Grandma Steinmetz (Helen Hayes), a little old lady from San Francisco who is about to be thrown out of house and home by a ruthless high-rise builder (Keenan Wynn).

Herbie manages to enlist a flight attendant (Stefanie Powers), an attorney (Ken Berry) and an old rancher (John McIntire) in Grandma's fight against eviction. But it looks like a losing battle until the valiant VW musters an astonishing army of his own.

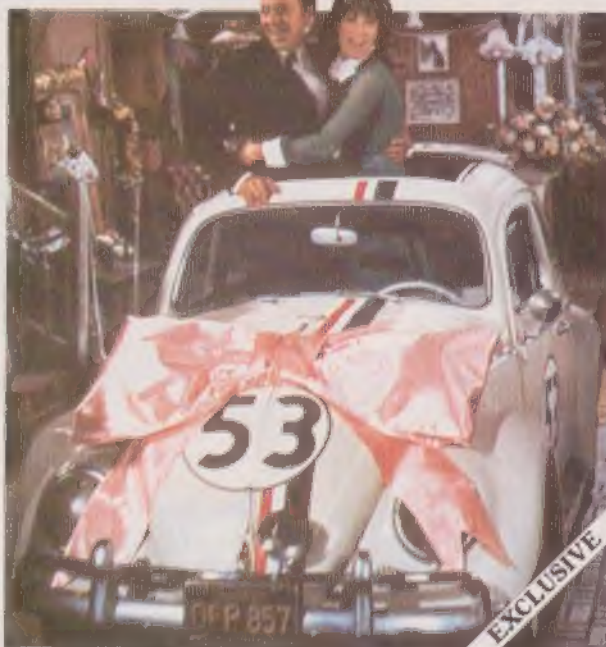

Herbie nosed out 20 sports car contenders for an automotive acting debut as The Love Bug. It was a real brake for the Beetle, and he accelerated to world fame as the star of four movies and a five-part television series.

This comedy was shot in San Francisco among such landmarks as the Golden Gate Bridge and the swank Sheraton-Palace Hotel. For Herbie's scene in the hotel's elegant Garden Court dining room, a showplace since 1875, his bottom had to be drip-proofed and he moved under battery power to eliminate engine noise and emissions. His climb up the cables of the Golden Gate Bridge was accomplished by civic cooperation and plenty of Disney magic.

July 7, 9, 13, 16, 18, 20, 22, 25, 29, 31

Mouseterpiece Theater

Host George Plimpton, with his usual wit and polish, adds amusing side-lights to classic cartoons.

Among his selections this month are "Paul Bunyan," in which the giant lumberjack and his blue ox Babe hew their way into American folklore; "The Old Mill," a moody, beautifully interpreted Academy Award winner; "Father's Lion," a tall tale starring Goofy and his son; "The Old Army Game," with Donald Duck as a G.I.; and "Figaro and Frankie," a squabble between kitten and canary.

"COMING YOUR WAY" A DIFFERENT KIND OF SNEAK PREVIEW

DISNEY STUDIO SHOWCASE

Annette Funicello

Annette Funicello, whose Disney career spans 30 years, presents "a somewhat unusual look at Disney movies." She charts an informal history of the studio's feature films using trailers—the theatrical term for scenes from coming attractions. By means of these selected trailers it is possible to mark milestones in the studio's progress.

Annette begins with previews of "Alice in Wonderland," Walt Disney's 1951 animated fantasy. Among other innovative films she introduces are "Song of the South," an early feature combining live-action and animation; "Treasure Island," Disney's first full-length live-action production; "Babes in Toyland" and the Academy Award-winning "Mary Poppins," Disney's hit musicals.

Annette closes with a trailer for "Never Cry Wolf," a contemporary Disney film which is also a coming attraction on The Disney Channel.

ENJOY THE CRICKET'S CHOICE OF CHILDREN'S FILMS

JIMINY CRICKET THEATRE

Jiminy Cricket hosts an anthology of international children's films that will have kids jumping for joy—by jiminy! Two new movies premiere every other Sunday.

Beginning July 1, a pair of truckers and their kids become "C.B. Heroes" when they use their wits and citizen band radios to foil the plans of a mean-talking hijacker.

This fast-wheeling British adventure is paired with "Irene Moves In," from "The Kids of Degrassi Street," a Canadian juvenile film series. The street is real (in Toronto), the time is now, the kids play themselves and the stories are about the normal bumps, bruises and blessings of growing up. Ida tries to freeze newcomer Irene out of the neighborhood club and gets the cold-shoulder herself.

On July 15 a thoroughly modern California girl visits her aging grandmother in Oklahoma and finds her Cherokee heritage in "Ann of the Wolf Clan."

Following Ann's journey of self-discovery, "The Kids of Degrassi Street" return in "Sophie Minds the Store." Math-whiz Sophie thinks she's too good to make mistakes—until the cash register receipts come out $20 short!

Meet Ward Kimball, the Disney artist who never grew up.

Kimball celebrates his 50th anniversary as a Disneyite by inviting you to his home, which he has turned into a combination railroad, toyland and Old Curiosity Shop. He presides over this whimsical domain with humor and a change of costume for every occasion.

A lifelong train buff, Kimball runs a backyard railroad system consisting of three restored steam locomotives, six cars, a thousand feet of track and a station. Kimball, naturally, designed the circus train in "Dumbo" (see page 5). He occasionally rolls out an antique fire engine, a relic of his days as lead trombonist of a Dixieland jazz combo called The Firehouse Five Plus Two. Kimball's house is filled with Disneyana, reminders of his work on

"Pinocchio" (he developed Jiminy Cricket), "The Three Caballeros" (he animated the title song), the Academy Award-winning "Toot, Whistle, Plunk and Boom" and the Emmy-winning "Man in Space" teleseries. When time hangs heavy on his hands, which is seldom, he Walt Disney called Ward Kimball a genius. Walt was never heard to say that about anyone else.

Trailmates Dale and Roy

"Happy Trails" with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans

Before Dale Evans became his co-star, Roy Rogers had held hands with, but seldom kissed, about 50 leading ladies in his westerns.

Roy remembers one in particular, sultry Katherine DeMille (director Cecil B. DeMille's daughter) who was the heroine of "In Old Caliente."

Katherine plays the daughter of Don Miguel Vargas (Frank Puglia), who befriends Roy when he is suspected of murdering her father.

Roy has a lot to straighten out before the bad guys are brought to justice, but with Katherine's help he succeeds.

THE GREAT LOCOMOTIVE CHASE

Fess Parker, Jeffrey Hunter

July is a commemorative month in our national history, so we're pleased to premiere "The Great Locomotive Chase"—the true story of America's first Congressional Medal of Honor recipients.

Fess Parker stars as

James J. Andrews, a Union secret agent assigned to destroy a vital military railroad link between Chattanooga and Atlanta during the Civil War.

Andrews and his 21 raiders steal a train northbound from Atlanta. William A. Fuller (Jeffrey Hunter), a Confederate railroad conductor, chases them in a locomotive so hastily commandeered that he has to run it backwards. July 4, 6, 8, 13, 16, 19, 21, 25, 27, 30

A BELOVED CLASSIC CONTINUES THIS MONTH

HEIDI in Town

Katia Polletin,
Kathi Bohm, Sonja Sutter,
Rene Deltgen,
Rosalind Speirs

In last month's opening segment of this three-part mini-series, Heidi (Katia Polletin) comes to live with her reclusive grandfather (Rene Deltgen) in his Alpine cabin. Their happiness is clouded when Heidi's Aunt Dete (Rosalind Speirs) takes Heidi away to be the companion to Clara Sesemann (Kathi Bohm), the crippled daughter of a wealthy Frankfurt merchant.

Heidi and Clara make friends as the servants bicker

This month's second episode begins as Heidi arrives in the city. Although she tries hard to fit into the Sesemann household, her innocent escapades and errors provoke wrath from the housekeeper, Fraulein Rottenmeier (Sonja Sutter).

Despite Clara's affectionate kindness, Heidi yearns for her grandfather and the mountain meadows she loves. To her great relief and joy, she is finally sent home

The Last Flight of Noah's Ark

Alastair Sim, Peter Barkworth,
Maurice Colbourne, Susan Tebb

Here's a story of courage and compassion in which the horse thieves are heroes, and children at that. You'll love them

It's 1909, and pit ponies hauling coal in a Yorkshire mine are to be replaced by machinery. Young Dave and Tommy Sandler (Andrew Harrison, Benjie Bolgar) help tend the horses in their underground stables. When the boys learn their animals will be slaughtered, they enlist an 11-year-old friend, Alice Sandman (Chloe Franks). The three youngsters set about trying to save the pit ponies from their doom

This heart-tugging drama was filmed at the 19th century Thorpe-Hesley colliery near Sheffield, England. Award-winner Rosemary Anne Sisson wrote the screenplay and Charles Jarrott ("The Last Flight of Noah's Ark") directed.

Bob Moore finalizes Sam

1984's Olympic Games symbol

Sam is the handiwork of Bob Moore, a veteran Disney artist, who reveals the origin and development of his creation in this Disney Channel exclusive.

"Since the games would be in Los Angeles, the Olympic Committee wanted something symbolic of the area," Moore says. After several months at the drawing board he submitted sketches of a palm tree ("Doesn't look athletic"), an orange ("Same reason"), the sun ("Same reason"), a seal ("Sure it can swim like a fish, but it can't pole vault worth a darn"), a pistol-packing cactus ("Are you kidding?"), a tortoise ("It can run —but not fast enough"), a buffalo ("Too hard to work with a four-footed animal"), two raccoons ("No way. They look like bandits"), a turkey ("Connotation not quite right"). Eventually Moore came up with an eagle wearing an Uncle Sam hat, waving an American flag, and carrying the Olympic torch

The image of Moore's proud bird with the platinum tail appears everywhere, but neither he nor Walt Disney Productions receives royalties from it. The company assigned its copyright to the Olympic Committee to benefit the 1984 summer games.

ROOTS OF GOOFY

It takes just the right chemistry to make dynamite entertainment, and you'll get a bang out of Gary Owens and Goofy as they descend Goofy's family tree all the way to its tangled roots.

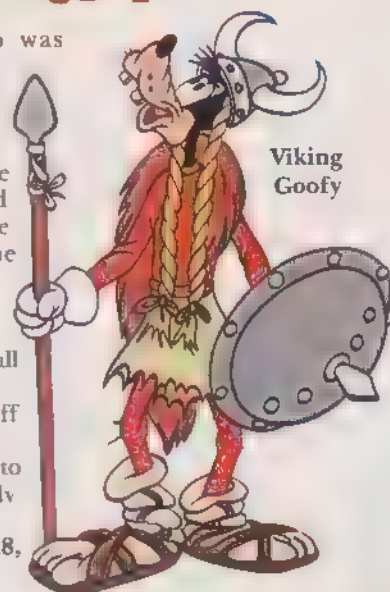

Owens, a quick-witted wag, opens this cartoon comedy special in Goofy's attic. There they find documents tracing the Goof's ancestry back to the Stone Age. Then, century by century, they sort out the genealogical snarl that makes Goofy what he is today.

Among Goofy's forefathers, they locate a Viking explorer who was always so far out he never knew where he was, an Italian navigator who knew the world was square (or triangular), and a trail blazer in the Sahara who went the wrong way and discovered the South Pole.

The recipient of all this information is Goofy's son, a chip off the old block-head, who appears likely to carry on in the family tradition.

WALT DISNEY WORLD SPORTSILLAP

Dick Van Patten and stars

Walt Disney World goes all out with parades, shows and special entertainment to welcome 128 finalists competing in the I.T.S./Sport Goofy World Tennis Championships there.

Dick Van Patten, his wife Patti, their sons Nels and James, tennis instructor Vic Braden, and Disney's own Sport Goofy play hosts to teenage tennis stars from 32 countries.

Festivities include a hoedown and fabulous opening number in which hundreds of performers and characters dance through the streets from Cinderella Castle to It's a Small World in the Magic Kingdom.

THE GANG'S ALL HERE

Alice Faye,
 Carmen Miranda,
 Phil Baker,
 Benny Goodman

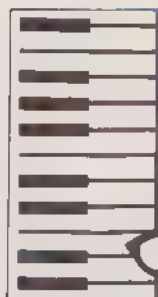

This wartime musical about a night club star (Alice Faye) who falls for a soldier (James Ellison) marks the Technicolor debut of director Busby Berkeley.

Carmen Miranda hits a musical high spot as the colorful "Lady in the Tutti-Frutti Hat."

Berkeley staged the spectacular dance routines in musicals like "42nd Street," "Footlight Parade" and the "Gold Diggers" series. For this splashy fun-fest, Berkeley trots out his precision corps of chorus cuties, puts Carmen Miranda through her paces as "The Lady in the Tutti-Frutti Hat" and even slides in a vocal number for clarinetist Benny Goodman.

Steve Allen's MUSIC ROOM

"The name of this show is Music Room and we have room for a lot of music here." So saying, Steve Allen welcomes Melba Moore, Joe Williams and Paul Williams to a breezy songfest which includes Jayne Meadows, Bill Maher and the Terry Gibbs band.

Steve sets the pace with "Thatta Girl," one of his own songs which he dedicates to "all the lonely young ladies in the world." Composer Paul Williams, taking Steve's cue, sings a pair of his hits: "Let Me Be the One" and the Academy Award-winning "Evergreen."

Joe Williams is a legendary bluesman who follows Paul with haunting renditions of "Squeeze Me" and

(Clockwise from top): Steve Allen thumps the congas; Joe Williams sings "Squeeze Me"; Paul Williams talks about composing; Melba Moore sings "I've Got Love"

"Close Enough for Love." Melba Moore, a Broadway luminary who won a Tony award for her performance in "Purlie," sings a torchy "I've Got Love"

Steve Allen is a jazz buff, as most everybody knows. With Joe Williams backing him, he talks a bit about the debt rock 'n' roll owes to boogie-woogie, a form of jazz from the 1920s. Then, while all the cats join in, Steve lays ten on the old 88 and closes his show with a boogie beat

Chaplin's back from the front in "Shoulder Arms"

Charlie Chaplin's versatility shines in these three contrasting comedies.

In "A Dog's Life" (1918), Charlie as the Little Tramp adopts Scraps, a stray dog, and the two become friends as well as partners in stealing food. When the heat's on Charlie hides Scraps in his baggy pants, a dodge that fails when the dog's tail emerges from a hole in the back of his trousers

In "Shoulder Arms" (1918), Charlie plays a private at an army training camp during World War I. He outclasses all other trainees in incompetence, but in his dreams becomes a military hero who singlehandedly captures the Kaiser and others in the German high command.

In "The Pilgrim" (1923), Charlie is an escaped convict who disguises himself as a clergyman. He is accepted by the congregation of a small western town, where he performs a notable good deed before being booted over the border into Mexico

Chaplin, an original craftsman and perfectionist, wrote and directed these three films

Since "Five Mile Creek" premiered, we've continued to receive letters telling us how much you like the characters. You'll enjoy them even more during the series' new season, which continues this month with two self-contained episodes about our settlers in the Australian outback of the 1860s.

Three man-hunting females from England arrive at the Haven in "Mail Order Brides" (premiering July 4). When one of them sets her cap for both Con Madigan (Jay Kerr) and Jack Taylor (Rod Mullinar), the fellows hear bells—of alarm, that is. Fed up, Kate Wallace (Liz Burch) and Maggie Scott (Louise Caire Clark) do their own husband-rustling.

In "Maggie" (premiering July 18), American Maggie Scott learns that her parents have died in a cholera epidemic. Before she has time to mourn, however, she must care for the victims of a serious stagecoach accident. As she and banker Charlie Withers (Peter Carroll) work to save the driver, Withers reveals his private grief. Deeper understanding and affection for each member of the Five Mile Creek family come with the dawn and the Haven seems more truly a refuge than ever.

As partners in the Australian Express stage line, Jay Kerr and Rod Mullinar are ever alert to sudden danger

THE EXPLORERS "Afghanistan-The Land Beyond"

Afghanistan, landlocked and isolated for centuries, has given its diverse citizenry one common characteristic, a fiercely independent spirit. This film, photographed by explorer Jens Bjerre prior to the Russian invasion of December, 1979, is dedicated to "the people of this courageous nation in their struggle to become and remain free."

Johnny Tremain

Hal Stalmaster, Luana Patten, Jeff York, Sebastian Cabot, Richard Beymer

Here's a film to kindle your patriotic spirit in this anniversary month of America's independence.

Johnny Tremain (Hal Stalmaster) is an apprentice silversmith in Boston in 1773. As political events lead increasingly toward a revolutionary war, Johnny spies for the freedom-loving Sons of Liberty and joins their defiant Boston Tea Party. He continues resisting Redcoat rule until "the shot heard round the world" sets off the War of Independence on April 19, 1775, and Johnny becomes a colonial soldier.

Hal Stalmaster and Richard Beymer join Sons of Liberty

The battles of Concord and Lexington, both fought that same day, were reenacted 3,000 miles from Massachusetts on a Southern California ranch.

IT'S THE JULY PLAY IT AGAIN CINEMA ENCORE WINNER!

Condorman

Michael Crawford, Oliver Reed, Barbara Carrera

"Condorman" is back as your choice for July's "Play It Again Cinema" performance. The laughter-packed super-spy spoof won by 42% of the vote, with "Big Red" taking 31% and "So Dear to My Heart" trailing with 27%.

Woody Wilkins, creator of the comic strip character "Condorman," likes to test his inventions himself. He's usually ready to try anything, but when a beautiful Russian agent asks him to help her defect, his ingenuity is put to a real-life test.

It's anyone's guess whether Woody can save the spy, as he stumbles and fumbles through a high-speed international intrigue that makes a day with 007 look routine.

BIG-NAME BANDS FROM THE MAGIC KINGDOM

BIG BANDS AT DISNEYLAND

Singer Cab Calloway (top) and the Glenn Miller Orchestra light up Disneyland

Count Basie, Glenn Miller, Woody Herman, Cab Calloway, Bob Crosby. Music in the mood of these great orchestra leaders brings back memories of the 1940s, of dancing under the stars, of the fabulous era when big bands were the rage all across America. This month we feature their music in a summer of concerts direct from Disneyland.

Trombonist Glenn Miller's arrangements of "In the Mood," "Tuxedo Junction" and "Moonlight Serenade" typify his smooth, distinctive style. Miller disappeared on a military flight over the English Channel in World War II. Dick Gerhart conducts his present orchestra.

Woody Herman and his aggregation began as a blues band, then progressed to swing and pop. Their 1939 version of "Woodchoppers' Ball" put them on the musical map. "I'll Remember April," "Blues in the Night" and "Caldonia" are among their oft-requested hits.

Cab Calloway pioneered his hip singing style at the Cotton Club in New York. To this day, 50 years after he introduced them, Calloway is identified with his hi de-hoing on "Minnie the Moocher" and other jump tunes.

Bob Crosby fronted a Dixieland jazz band featuring a nucleus of eight musicians called the Bobcats. Right from their start in 1936 they produced "Dixieland Shuffle," followed by "South Rampart Street Parade" and "Big Noise from Winnetka," which are still signature selections.

crooks. Kicked out of Monte Carlo for hiding cards up their sleeves, they rescue a rich old lady (Minnie Dupree) from a train wreck. She gratefully takes them in, with unexpected consequences.

This comedy of cardsharps and fortune hunters has been rated among producer David O. Selznick's finest pictures.

the edison twins

Ann and Tom Edison are likeable teen twins who, with the help of their pestiferous brother Paul, apply scientific principles to shady deals and doings around town. An animated segment explains the pertinent fact or theory for each episode.

"The Race" has Tom and Ann taking opposing sides in a swim meet. They learn about team effort. You learn about water surface tension.

In "UFO" Paul thinks he's had a close encounter of the third kind, but the spaceship he sees is really a model Tom and Ann are using for a stop-action movie. A discussion of the principles of animation follows. (See page 32 for a related activity.)

"The Edison Twins" is the brainchild of producer Michael Hirsch. Remembering his own difficulties with science in school, Hirsch has created a TV program that takes the mystery out of science for young viewers

CENTENNIAL SUMMER

Jeanne Crain, Cornel Wilde, Linda Darnell, William Eythe

Among our holiday programs this month, we'd like to single out "Centennial Summer" for your special attention

This is a rich, handsomely mounted musical set in Philadelphia in 1876, with lots of celebration to mark America's first hundred years.

Jeanne Crain and Linda Darnell play the beautiful Rogers sisters who fall for Cornel Wilde, a handsome young Frenchman in charge of the French pavilion at the Philadelphia Exposition.

THE BOY and The Bronc Buster

Vincent Van Patten, Earl Holliman

PLUS

THE AMERICAN COWBOY AND STEERBUSTING

Chuck Connors

Bronco busting is as American as mom's apple pie and as old as the western frontier. Come celebrate a hundred years of rodeoing with a rip-roaring bunch of cowboys.

"The Boy and the Bronc Buster" takes 15-year-old Todd Thompson (Vincent Van Patten) from a ranch in Arizona to the hard-riding rodeos of the 1880s. His idol is Cal Winslow (Earl Holliman), a champion bronc buster and rodeo star.

Trouble begins when the two are robbed, and Todd discovers that Cal is wanted for murder. A sly peddler, a suspicious sheriff, and a blacksmith's pretty daughter keep the plot boiling.

"The American Cowboy and Steerbusting" documents the life of cowboys today, from roundups and trail drives to the rodeo circuits which have become big business. Are these competitions a controversial sport or a natural heritage of our Old West?

Earl Holliman as a rodeo champ falls from glory in the eyes of his young friend, Vincent Van Patten

Chuck Connors offers (1982), old-timers, new-opinions as host and narrator of this factual film featuring Jim Davis, Cowboy Rookie of the Year

(1982), old-timers, new-comers, and originals like Will Rogers, Everett Shaw and Ben Johnson. July 5, 7, 9, 15, 23, 27

We're All Ears

Linda Palmer
Subscriber Services Director

Dear Friends,

If you're like me, you enjoy being outdoors a lot during the summer, so TV programs have to be extra special to get you inside.

I'm happy to tell you there's some outstanding entertainment coming your way. Mark your calendars for "Dumbo," "The Roots of Goofy," "Jiminy Cricket Theatre," "Disney Family Album" and "Herbie Rides Again." These and many more bright new shows will add hours of pleasure, I'm sure, to the star-spangled summer planned for you on The Disney Channel.

Here in Los Angeles, Olympic Spirit is really high. Disney folks have a particular reason to cheer. Sam the Eagle, the official 1984 Olympic Symbol, was designed by Walt Disney Productions. You'll smile as Sam "hatches" this month from a vague idea to 3-dimensional life in "Here Comes Sam...The Making of an Olympic Symbol." It's an amusing, original show that made me feel red, white and blue all over!

I'm really enjoying the photos of your children and their pets. Keep them—and your wonderful letters—coming. Remember, your opinions count.

Sincerely,
Linda

PROGRAMS ENRICH SUBSCRIBERS' LIVES IN MANY WAYS

We really enjoy YOU & ME, KID. With us, it's actually YOU AND US, KIDS! The kids (James, almost 5 and Coral, 3) and I try to do all the activities together. Sometimes it gets a bit crowded, especially at hugging and kissing time, but we have fun!

Jeanne, James and Coral Tagge
Pass Christian, MS

Your programs and films have really enriched our lives. After seeing "Snow Bear," we're planning an Alaskan vacation. The Disney Channel gives my six-year-old son a new topic for discussion every week, sending me to the library to explain what he's seen on your shows.

YOU'RE TALKING— WE'RE BLUSHING!

The May, 1984 issue describes the fourth Hollywood version of "Les Misérables" as "the Dumas classic." May I respectfully point out that "Les Misérables" is a "Victor Hugo classic"? I believe a correction is in order since many students read and definitely learn from your publication.

HURRAHS FOR DISNEY CHANNEL FUN!

It's new! It's exciting! It's innovative! And it's only on The Disney Channel!

What's causing such a stir? Why, it's the Disney "promos" that advertise upcoming programs. We LOVE them!

Hats off to those writers and technicians who create such great "commercials."

Carole Vollmer

I'm a 4-H'er and have raised one guide dog puppy, Rochelle, for Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc. Your movie "Atta Girl, Kelly" was so realistic I watched it three times! Maybe because of the movie, other kids will get interested in raising guide dog puppies too.

SONG SEARCH

Have you any idea where I might obtain a recording of "The Ugly Bug Ball" sung by Burl Ives in "Summer Magic"?

Deborah Matlock
Littleton, CO

"The Ugly Bug Ball" was released as a single and on two albums. Unfortunately the records are out of print. However, you might find them at used record stores in your area.

The Disney Channel welcomes letters from viewers about programming and The Disney Channel Magazine. Letters for publication should be addressed to The Disney Channel Subscriber Services, 4111 W. Exploring the Archives

Dave Smith, archivist for Walt Disney Productions, answers questions and provides information about the studio's history and its productions

Can you give me some background on Walt Disney's family?
—S. L., Effingham, Ill.

Walt Disney's ancestors, originally named d'Isigny, migrated from France to England to Ireland. His great-grandfather crossed the Atlantic to Canada in 1834, where he settled in Ontario and built a grist mill.

Walt's father, Elias, was born in Canada but, while in his teens, moved with his family to Kansas. A few years later, when a neighbor family named Call moved to Florida, Elias went with them and soon married the daughter, Flora. Elias and Flora had bad luck growing oranges and running a hotel, so they moved to Chicago where Elias became a building contractor. It was there that Walt was born on December 5, 1901.

Olympic Goofy

DISNEY CHANNEL TRIVIA

...Since this is Olympic month, did you know that Walt Disney made a Mickey Mouse cartoon called "Barnyard Olympics" at the time of the 1932 Olympics in Los Angeles, told a humorous history of the Games with Goofy in "The Olympic Champ" in 1942, and in 1960 produced all the pageantry for the Winter Olympic Games in Squaw Valley, California?

...Walt Disney's daughter Sharon has a small role in "Johnny Tremain" (see page 15).
...Goofy was originally known as Dippy Dawg (see page 12).
...Disney films often go through a number of different titles. During production, "The Littlest Horse Thieves" (see page 10) was known as "Pit Ponies." It was released in England as "Escape From the Dark." Which would you have picked?
..."Dumbo" (see page 5) had been scheduled for the cover of Time magazine at the time of its general release in December, 1941. But a much more momentous event occurred—Pearl Harbor—and poor Dumbo was supplanted by Japanese General Yamamoto

In "Ann of the Wolf Clan," a young girl learns about her Cherokee heritage for the first time.

As U.S. citizens, we have a remarkable opportunity to enjoy traditions brought by settlers from all over the world.

Use the activities here as starting points for a summer of fascinating exploration.

- 1) Contact your local chamber of commerce and state tourist board for information about festivals or craft fairs in your area. Plan to attend.
- 2) Locate historical sites or museums related to early pioneers in your state. Tour the sites.
- 3) After you've learned which nationalities settled in your area, visit the library for books about their music, art, crafts, cooking, stories, etc.
- 4) Keep a family scrapbook of the places you've visited and new things you've seen and enjoyed.
- 5) Find out if any relatives or friends practice old-time crafts. Would they be willing to give lessons?
- 6) Check local clubs, churches, and community colleges for craft classes you can take. Senior citizen groups may have members who'd be delighted to share their skills

Kids & Pets

If you'd like a chance to get your child and pet in the picture like the pint-size posers here, just snap a shot and send it in. For details, see page 21.

An Exclusive Service Just For Disney Channel Subscribers.

Disney Channel Savings Stamps

You have been asking about Disney merchandise. Items you may have seen at Disneyland or Walt Disney World. Unique Disney apparel you may have seen friends wearing around town.

You've been wondering how and where you can get them. So we've created the Disney Channel Savings Stamps Program, an exclusive service for Disney Channel subscribers.

With this program, you can collect special stamps and combine them with dollars to obtain Disney merchandise.

Every month, we're including a dated, colored savings stamp. Hang on to each one. Just to keep things fair 'n square for everybody, we can only accept one stamp from each issue, so no borrowing or batching groups of identical stamps please!

When you see something you want, and you have enough stamps, complete the order form, enclose it with your check or money order, and send it to: Disney Channel Savings Stamps, 5933 Corvette Street, Commerce, CA. 90040.

Wish you could see a film "just once more?" Maybe one you missed the first time on The Disney Channel? Well, here's your chance to bring it back. Below are three candidates for PLAY IT AGAIN CINEMA. Pick your favorite, mark the ballot and return it to us.* The movie with the most votes will be announced and shown in October. Remember, only one ballot per family. Please limit your choice to the films listed here.)

Fess Parker, Kathleen Crowley, Jeff York

A half-trained prairie doctor holds the lives of an entire wagon train of settlers in his hands as they travel the Oregon Trail in 1844. Despite danger and hardship the determined group presses onward to a dramatic and moving climax.

☐ Escapade in Florence

Tommy Kirk, Annette Funicello

Two young artists become entangled with international art thieves as they try to save a priceless 15th century painting. This thriller was filmed entirely on location in Florence.

☐ THE ONE AND ONLY GENUINE ORIGINAL FAMILY BAND

Walter Brennan, Buddy Ebsen, Lesley Ann Warren, John Davidson,

A musical family of Dakota homesteaders mixes politics and showbiz with hilariously disastrous results. Plenty of song and dance routines add zest to this slice of Americana.

Hi there!

July brings picnics, carnivals, circuses and Independence Day celebrations! It also brings lots more star-spangled good times on The Disney Channel!

There's plenty of action this month. "Herbie Rides Again" and "Dumbo" soars! "The Edison Twins" solve mysteries and "The Kids of Degrassi Street" return with more fun on "Jiminy Cricket Theatre." They're just some of the friends waiting to show you a great time!

The "Just for Kids" section adds ZIP to your summer with ideas for holding your own neighborhood Olympics or building a tennis ball roller coaster.

So join the gang at The Disney Channel for the happiest, snappiest summer yet! We're glad to have you along.

Your Pal,

MICKEY MOUSE

P.S. Wow! We've received almost 50,000 letters and drawings! Keep it up!

Build A Tennis Ball Roller Coaster

Watch BUD'S GARAGE
July 1, 4, 9, 12, 14, 17, 22, 26, 30

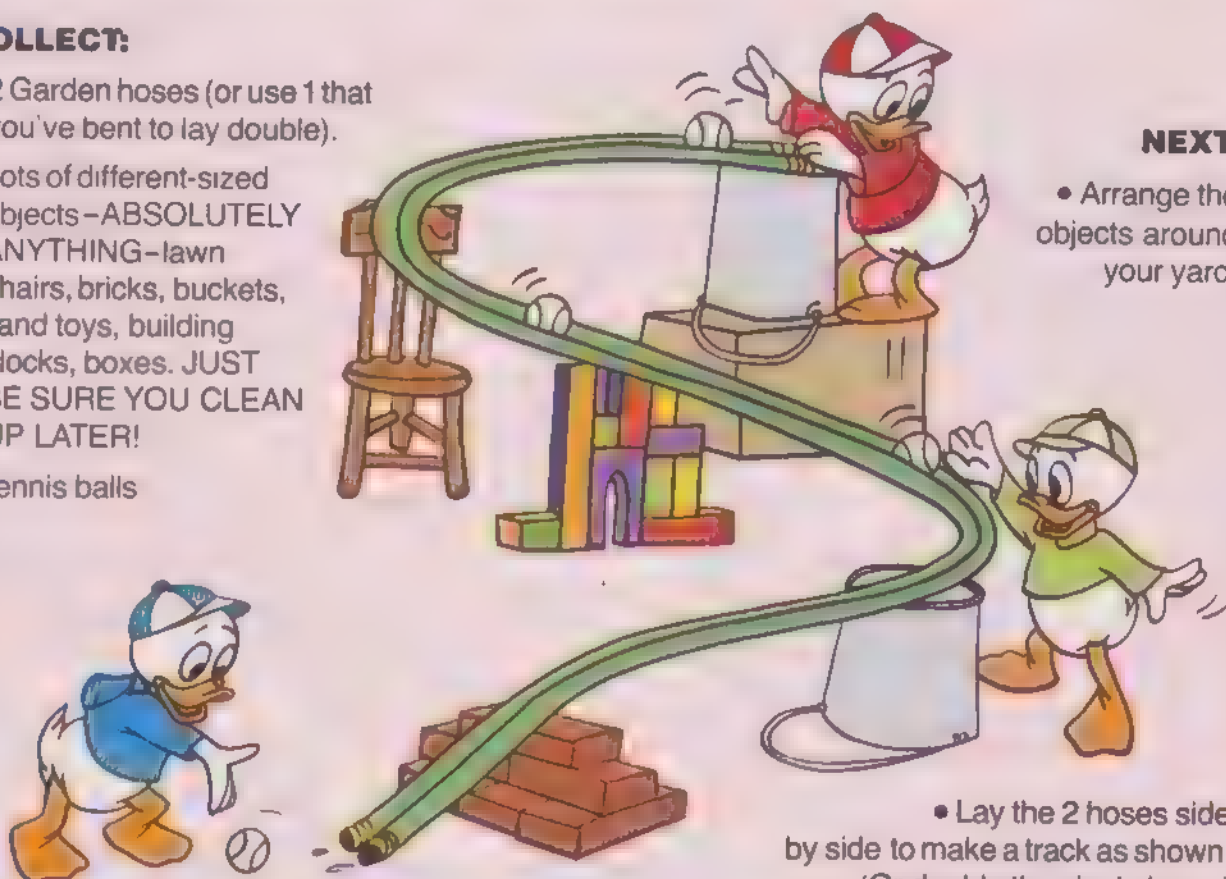

Build your own Disneyland in the back yard? Well, maybe it's not quite that elaborate, but Bud's idea for a tennis ball roller coaster is a lot of fun anyway! Here's how to make it.

COLLECT:

- 2 Garden hoses (or use 1 that you've bent to lay double).
- Lots of different-sized objects—ABSOLUTELY ANYTHING—lawn chairs, bricks, buckets, sand toys, building blocks, boxes. JUST BE SURE YOU CLEAN UP LATER!
- Tennis balls

NEXT:

- Arrange the objects around your yard.

- Lay the 2 hoses side by side to make a track as shown. (Or double the single hose.)

- Drape the hoses over and under and around the objects just like a roller coaster. Drop a tennis ball on the track at the starting point for a test run. Arrange and rearrange the objects and the hose until the tennis balls travel all the way to the end. (Of course, the first object should be the highest, so the balls get a fast start and keep going.)

LET 'EM ROLL!!!

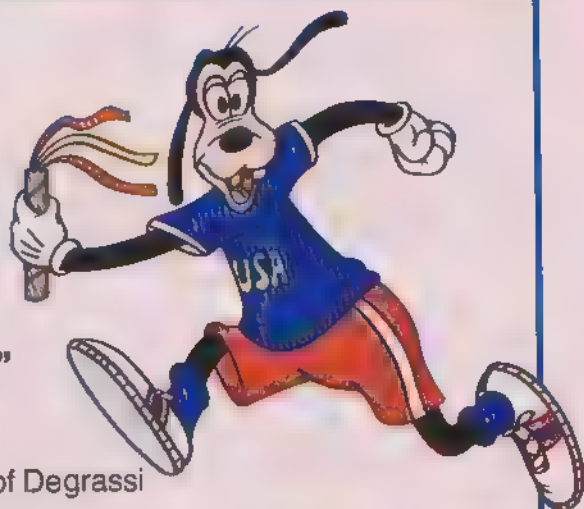

Go For The Gold In Your Own Backyard!

Stage a Neighborhood Olympics with The Kids of Degraffi Street. (Seen on "Jiminy Cricket Theatre" July 1, 5, 7, 11, 13, 15, 17, 21, 27, and 30.)

A neighborhood Olympics is just the kind of event the kids of Degraffi Street would love to put on!

Start with the ideas here and check your library for others. Red, white and blue ribbons make nifty medals. A cardboard tube with yellow and orange paper glued inside can be your Olympic torch.

Include easy activities for younger kids as well. Award all who participate. Ask an adult to referee, and remember it's how you play—not whether you win—that counts!

THROWING

Straw Javelin—Aim and throw a plastic straw like a javelin.

Sockput—Fill an old sock with sand and knot the top. Throw the shotput straight from the chest without swinging your arm into the air.

Paper Plate Discus—Toss a paper plate like a discus.

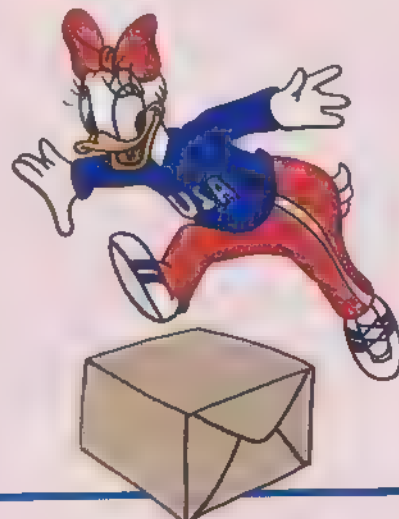

RACES:

Box Hurdles—Arrange cardboard boxes like hurdles along a track. (Use small boxes for younger kids.)

Obstacle Course (Best time wins.)—In a large, open area plan a winding, twisting, turning obstacle course using things like cardboard boxes, garden hoses, a plank set on bricks, ladders placed flat on the ground and other dull, non-breakable items. Run the course one at a time.

Ankle Race—Bend over, grab your ankles and race to the finish line without letting go!

Herbie

TO THE RESCUE!

Watch "Herbie Rides Again" July 7, 9, 13, 16, 18, 20, 22, 25, 29, 31

Herbie needs to get to the firehouse to save Grandma Steinmetz! Cut a small piece of paper for each player.

Make each piece a different color. Place on start. Flip a penny to move. Heads move one space, tails move two spaces. Follow the road signs. First person to reach the firehouse is the hero!

DRAW GOOFY WITHOUT GOOFING!

Watch "The Roots of Goofy" July 5, 9, 11, 14, 17, 18, 22, 23, 25, 27, 29

Everyone loves good old Goofy. He's always trying something new—and usually messing up! Goofy's lots of fun to draw. Practice sketching his profile following the instructions here.

1. Draw a circle and a fat crescent.

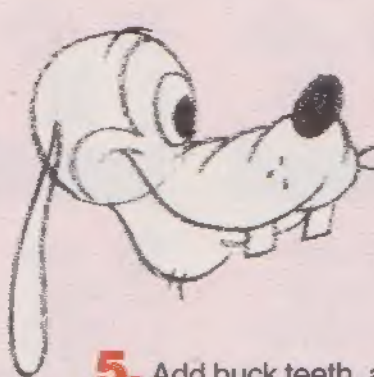

2. Add an oval for his eye and a smaller, darkened oval for the pupil. Draw two large partial ovals to separate the front of his face from the back of his head.

3. Three short curved lines make the wrinkles on Goofy's snout. A shaded oval makes his nose.

4. Next draw three curved lines (see #1, #2 and #3 on the diagram) to give Goofy his famous grin.

5. Add buck teeth, a droopy ear, a few whiskers, his hat and...

6. AW GARSH—it's the GOOF himself!

FIND IT IN THE LIBRARY!

Celebrate America's birthday with two Disney films: "Johnny Tremain" and "The Great Locomotive Chase." Read the books they came from. Try other books by the same authors.

JOHNNY TREMAIN by Esther Forbes

Also: "Paul Revere and the World He Lived In."

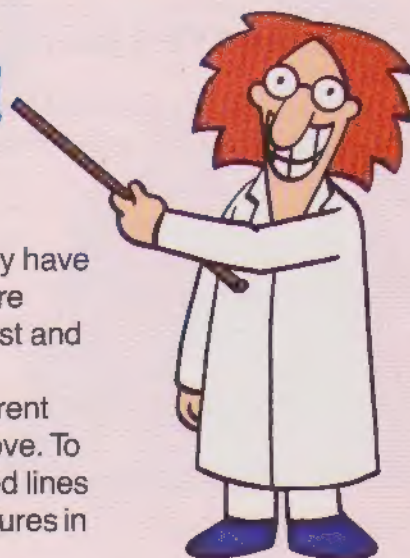

THE GREAT LOCOMOTIVE CHASE by McLennan Roberts
And: "Children of the Covered Wagon."

ANIMATED ANIMATION EXPLANATION from The Edison Twins!

JULY 7, 8, 12, 14, 17, 21, 25, 27, 29

Animation works because our eyes remember what they have seen for a split second after the image is gone. While you're looking at a second picture, your eye is still recalling the first and connecting them.

Make the Donald flip book here to see how slightly different pictures passing rapidly by your eyes actually appear to move. To put your book together, cut each picture apart on the dotted lines and staple or tape the left edges. Be careful to keep the pictures in the correct order. Flip the pictures with your thumb.

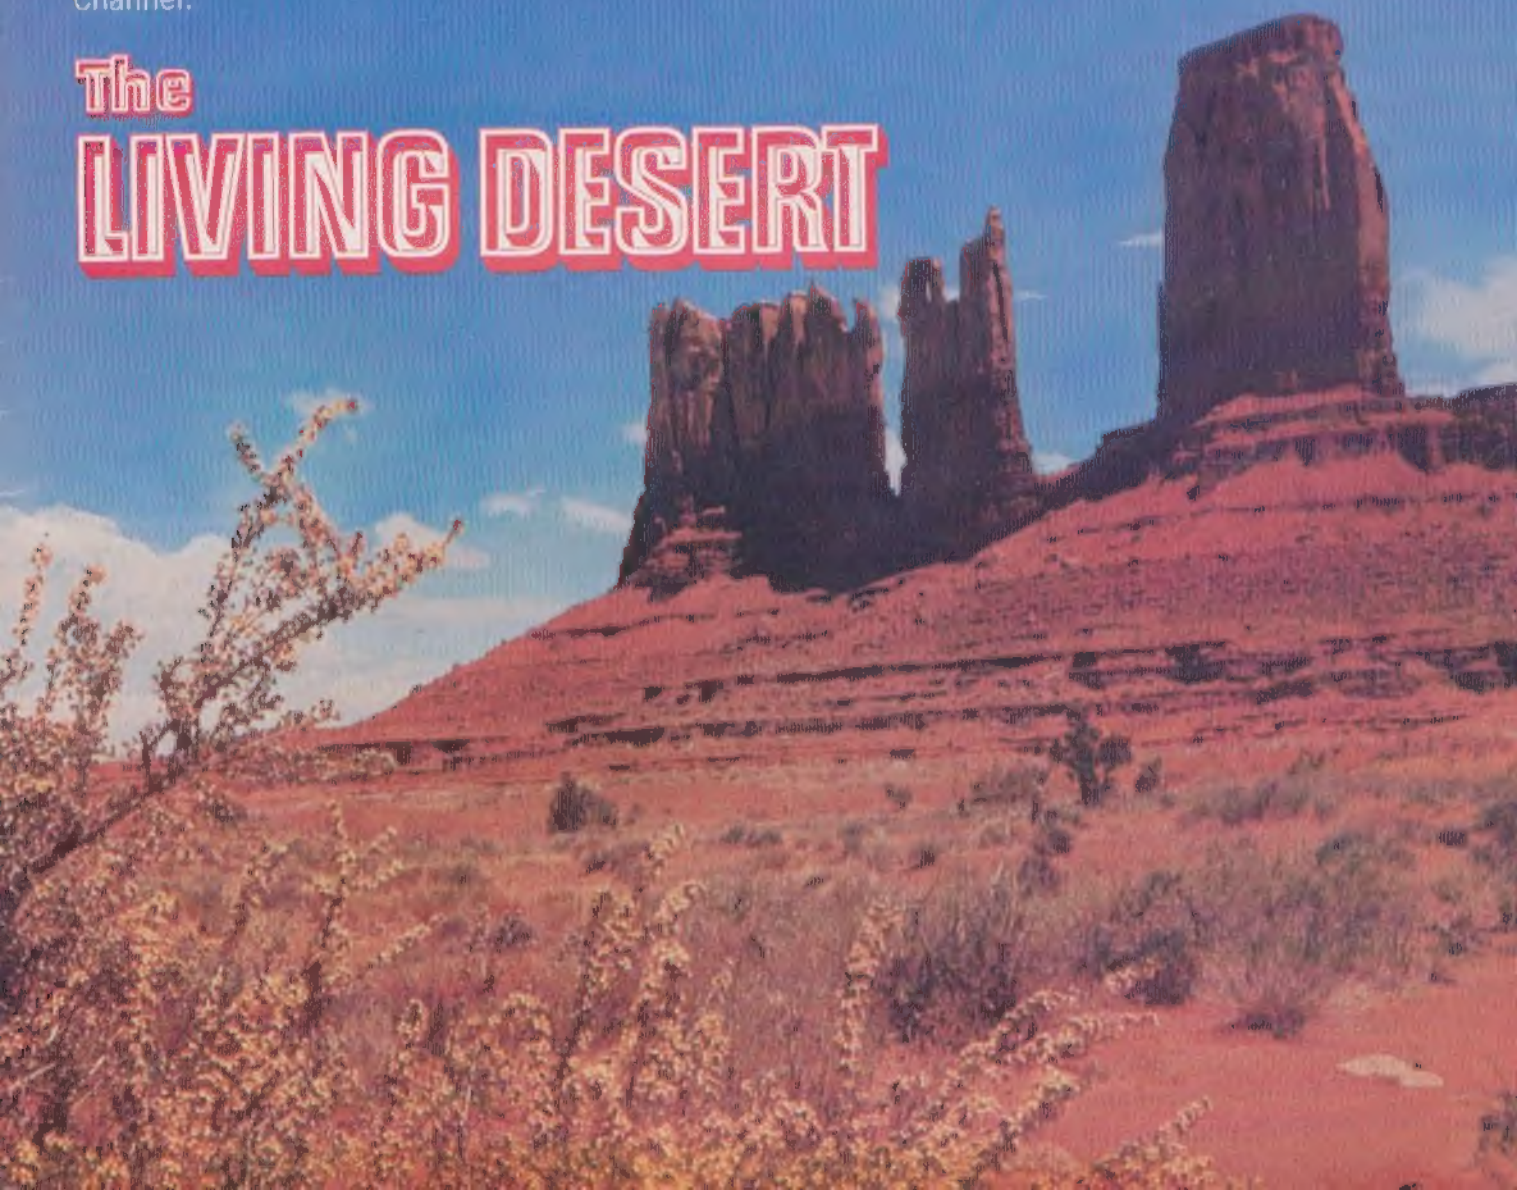

Walt Disney's Academy Award-winning classic

On the seemingly barren sandscape, the close-up camera captures strange creatures, exotic plant life, and weather—sudden and spectacular.

And your family gets a first-hand look at an unforgiving environment. Flowers bloom in sweltering heat. Snakes and hawks search for food by night. Each life form reveals its remarkable gift of survival.

You'll see it all in August. Only on The Disney Channel.
